

General Physics Corporation Launches Spanish Language Version of Power Fundamentals Training Series for Their GPiLearn™ Training Portal to Support Global Power Industry

Elkridge, MD. January 27, 2009 - Global performance improvement solutions provider General Physics Corporation (GP), a subsidiary of GP Strategies Corporation (NYSE: GPX), announced today that they have translated their Power Fundamentals Training Series into Spanish. The Spanish version includes 22 modules with over 5,000 screens and 550,000 words, and features 60 to 80 hours worth of training content.

Over 200 power industry clients in 30 different countries currently access GPiLearn™ through the Internet to train their power plant personnel. GPiLearn was launched domestically in 2002 and globally in 2006. By adding a Spanish language version, GP expects to expand and better serve its global customer base.

Joe Nasal, Senior Vice President of GP's Energy Services Group, stated, "We are pleased to add this capability for our Spanish-language customers; this is just one aspect of GP's global vision to help our customers train and qualify their power plant workforces in a cost-effective and reliable manner."
